CTHRA Think Tank for HR Executives to Examine Power & Politics in the C-Suite

NAPERVILLE, ILL., February 25, 2016 —The Cable and Telecommunications Human Resources Association (CTHRA) will host a Think Tank for HR Executives on April 6 at the NBCUniversal Talent Lab in New York City. The theme of the collaborative learning experience is Power & Politics in the C-Suite.

In the morning session, facilitator Angel Gomez will guide CTHRA's Think Tank participants through a dialogue on the many ways senior leaders give and take power in the organization. In addition, they will discuss the real consequences of uncontrolled politics and learn ways to prevent and mitigate the damages. Participants will leave with a framework that they can begin to utilize immediately to become more influential by facilitating C-Suite decision making in a politically effective manner.

In the afternoon, Think Tank participants will take part in a collaborative discussion with a panel comprised of chief executive officers (CEOs), chief operating officers (COOs) and chief human resources officers (CHROs) from the industry.

About Angel Gomez

Angel Gomez believes that individual and collective performance is driven by work that is meaningful and worthwhile – that one's work must have purpose. This belief and his unique, collaborative approach, shaped by 20 years of diverse professional experiences, has made him a trusted partner to some of the world's leading companies who count on him to create better people, better leaders and better organizations.

Before launching his consulting practice in 2008, Gomez served as the vice president of human resources for the Midwest Division of Wal-Mart Stores. In that capacity, he developed strategies, processes and practices that enabled the $55B business unit to achieve their business objectives by leveraging its human capital. Prior to joining Wal-Mart in 2004, Gomez had a successful legal career.
